The BGPERT AGM will be held before this meeting from 7.00pm, all members are invited to attend, agenda to follow.

We are delighted to welcome Dr Margaret Hannah to give an evening lecture following this years' annual general meeting.

Dr Hannah is a lecturer in public health medicine at St. Andrews University and also the director of health promotions at the International Futures Forum, which is a non-profit organisation and think tank that exists to develop and propagate a philosophy about how to make sense of today's complex world.

She is author of the book "Humanising Healthcare", which reflects on the factors contributing to the "intolerable" strain put onto healthcare services. In her book she also offers practical alternative strategies based upon numerous examples of transformative practice from across the UK.

The exact title of this meeting is yet to be determined as Dr Hannah will be preparing a bespoke meeting relevant specifically to challenges faced in primary care.

We are excited to welcome her and it poses to be a fascinating evening. Please put it in your diary and we hope to see you there.

This meeting is open to BGPERT and Clinical Society members. If you are not a member of BGPERT/Clinical Society but would like to attend, please email the team for more information.
